

Feeling a Little Blue

Howdy Folks,

Have we all had a good week? I treated it like a bit of a time game. "Let's see what I can achieve before I email the girls again on Thursday evening!" Now it's the night before our next Open Day, and I can see I should have probably had a little more sleep this week, less coffee, more water....

Anyway I have spent today getting ready for our No Frills Friday Open Day tomorrow. We are OPEN from 10 to 3 with Fabric and Thread ridiculous specials, plus a last chance, hands on look at all our beautiful kits heading to Sydney next week for the Quilt & Craft Fair. Now added to this pile of goodies are the following!

Peacock Through the Window

If you have known me for a while, then you will see what I have done! I have combined my Indian Peacock applique design with our popular Through the Windows pattern!

I collected a range of fabrics in rich teals and blues for this ensemble, and set them on black to make them really shine. The centre panel is appliqued, and the pattern includes the peacock diagram to scale. We used machine blanket stitch, but you can also blanket or satin stitch by hand or use needle turn applique or raw edge applique on the machine.

Then the borders are fun and easy to assemble, with each piece individually numbered. You also have the added fun of fussy cutting for pieces for the Peacock as well as the border pieces from the bigger feature prints.

61" high x 41" wide

Kit $79 Includes all fabrics and pattern.

Uptown Bag

It's been a while since we had a new kit in this one and I thought this feature fabric a good choice for something different. I'll confess I also thought it would look cool next to the Peacock quilt at the Sydney show!

Featuring sashed sleeves that encase the handles, it's a good tote size for shopping and sewing.

Kit $50 Includes all fabrics and pattern.

And here are some specials in Purples and Blues to complete the theme for the Day! Available on line until midnight Sunday, or stock sells out on line or at our Open Day tomorrow!

Warm Wishes, and Happy Sewing, Leesa.
